About the IEPC

The International Electric Propulsion Conference (IEPC) is the premier international forum for spacecraft primes, hardware developers, government researchers, academic scholars and students in the field of electric propulsion. The IEPC is held every two years and is attended by more than 500 participants with representation from more than 25 countries.

In 2019, the IEPC will welcome you in the historic halls of the University of Vienna, Austria.

The program will offer more than 350 technical presentations covering topics from propulsion device physics and development to on-orbit operation and satellite fleet management.

The IEPC 2019 offers several sponsorship packages allowing sponsors to present their company on event advertisements and in the exhibition area, both tailored to your requests.

The exhibition area is located in the heart of the conference venue and provides a perfect business presentation in historic surroundings.

Sponsorship Packages

The IEPC 2019 will have a rich and diverse technical program featuring the latest developments and research results in the field. It will host a number of informative and educational events, along with technical visits.

Your company sponsorship reflects your organization's commitment to electric propulsion and helps to ensure that special events during the conference are memorable, informative, and worthy of the occasion. The sponsorship funds will provide support to keep the conference registration fees down. In striving to motivate graduate student participation, IEPC thus also subsidizes a large portion of the registration fees for graduate students. IEPC enables students to interact with the EP community and increase the likelihood of their joining this field as professionals.
